

The economic aspects of recreational forest utilization

V. A. Koryakin, PhD – Russian Research Institute for silviculture and mechanization of forestry, Pushkino, Moscow region, koryakin_va@mail.ru

Key words: recreation, forest utilization, rates of the charge, subject of the Russian Federation, recreational services

The use of forests for recreation in the Russian Federation requires a rental fee (Forest Code 2006). Payment rates in the implementation of recreational activities are differentiated by the subjects of the Russian Federation / municipal areas . Differentiation payment rates using forests for recreation are now clearly not sufficient. Forest tax zoning appropriate to make a fractional.

Primarily rates for all municipal districts each of the subjects of the Russian Federation , in which the use of forests for recreation is most developed , should be defined. Competition for the right to lease forest areas for the implementation of recreation is underdeveloped .

The average rate of payment in most subjects of the Russian Federation only slightly higher than the average minimum bid fee.

The author offers / formulated two basic rules for calculating rates for the use of forests for recreational activities